

FEBRUARY 2022

GCI review of 'The Betrayal' - Bob Mazur

"The Betrayal takes readers upon a journey into the dark and dangerous world of wholesale, multi-million dollar drug dealing. Here, Mazur joins a new team, takes on a new challenge and assumes another identity (Bob Baldasare) as he penetrates the highest levels of money laundering management within one of Colombia's most dangerous drug cartels.

Bob and his courageous colleagues follow the money, all the while his family wait and pray for his safe return. The book straddles Colombia, Panama and Florida, as Mazur entwines himself in the supply chains of drugs, money, violence, fear, and danger.

Cash exchanged on the streets of America needs to be sent to drug suppliers in Colombia. Enter Bob Baldasare who finds university educated, smartly dressed, multi-lingual bankers and businessmen lining up to help him. Unbeknownst to him, at the time, there is a traitor among his new team. There is doubt, suspicion, increased fear and substantially increased risk.

This is a story of sacrifice and selflessness, set against greed and self indulgence. It is a complex story of good guys against bad guys, with some good guys becoming bad guys. It provides a frightening insight into the power, reach and corrupting influence of drug money."